"Sometimes to be aware of a moment is harder than seeing it."

My paintings are pictures and impressions from my memory. It might be real or a reflection of reality.

In our visual memory usually feelings are mixed between shapes (something that can be seen) and the feeling of it. For this I am trying to find the harmony which allows me to present a specific moment on my canvas.

Finding all of something in a two dimensional art work is not possible in my opinion. That is what forced me to search for more artistic techniques to create suitable surfaces which are helping me to picture my view of the paintings.
